Extension of time (EOT) arrangements for 2015 returns

Introduction

Legislation extends the time tax agents have to file their clients' tax returns up to 31 March each year.

The extension of time (EOT) agreement sets out the guidelines for the percentage of returns to be filed by certain dates throughout the year.

It makes provisions for excluding clients from the 31 March target percentage if they're late providing you with the information necessary to file a return.

It also allows for special arrangements where a client's return is affected by exceptional circumstances.

Chartered Accountants Australia and New Zealand (CAANZ), previously NZICA and Inland Revenue annually negotiate the administrative details of applying an automatic EOT to agents.

This agreement is applied by Inland Revenue to all tax agents, whether or not they're members of CAANZ.

Why have an EOT?

Legislation requires income tax returns to be filed by 7 July each year. However, the Commissioner can give the clients of tax agents an extension of time to file income tax returns up to, but not beyond, 31 March of the following year. See page 7 for legal references.

Realistically tax agents couldn't prepare all returns by 7 July, so the EOT agreement lets:

- tax agents spread return filing over a year rather than in one peak period
- Inland Revenue maintain an even flow of tax returns over a 12-month window and ensure no work is carried over to the next filing year.

EOT filing guidelines and dates

Interim dates are provided each year as a guideline to help you meet the requirement to file 100% of your clients' returns by 31 March. If some returns can't be filed by 31 March 2016 this agreement sets out how these will be managed.

As well as a guide to file 100% of returns by 31 March, interim dates also help us manage the processing of the returns filed.

The interim dates are negotiable and won't be monitored unless you fail to file 90% of returns as at 31 March. If this happens we'll issue a caution. Your EOT arrangement will then be supervised by your account manager for the following filing year.

Standard, E-File and late balance dates

If you haven't negotiated personal dates, the following interim dates apply as your guidelines:

- 40% of clients' returns filed by 11 September 2015
- 60% of clients' returns filed by 13 November 2015
- 80% of clients' returns filed by 12 February 2016.

These dates are to help you meet the required:

- 100% of clients' returns filed by 31 March 2016.

Negotiated personal guidelines – genuine reasons

If you failed to file at least 85% of 2014 returns as at 31 March 2015 you would have received a caution and your account manager will be supervising your EOT arrangement for the filing of 2015 returns.

This may include negotiating interim guidelines that better suit your business, but still with the requirement to file 100% by 31 March 2016.

Linking and EOT

When you link a new client you'll automatically be given an EOT unless the client has two or more returns outstanding.

Two or more returns outstanding

New clients with two or more returns unfiled at the time of linking (R EOT) won't be entitled to an automatic EOT for the current year.

If you take on a client and find they have returns outstanding for two or more years, there are two alternatives:

1. If the returns identified aren't required to be filed, call the tax agents' line or advise your account manager.
2. You or the client may apply for an individual EOT arrangement under section 37(3) of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Requesting information to file returns

Inland Revenue and CAANZ agreed on the following process to help tax agents obtain information so they're able to file a return for their client.

Deferral of policing for clients with exceptional circumstances ("D status")

We can't give an EOT beyond 31 March because we're constrained by legislation. However, in some circumstances clients can't file their returns by 31 March through no fault of their own. In these situations we'll change the client's EOT status to D (deferred) if they have:

- Y (EOT granted), or
- L (L letter requesting information) for the current year.

After 31 March, these clients will automatically be restored to the agent's client list for filing their 2016 returns.

Late provision of information (L letter)

If a client has an EOT and is late providing you with all the necessary information to complete their returns, you can issue a reminder letter by calling our 0800 tax agents' self-service line (0800 456 678).

Note

The letter is issued in the name of Inland Revenue. It won't be attributed to you or your agency and can't be used for clients who don't have an EOT or an overseas address. It reminds clients they haven't provided their tax agent with enough information to file a return. A copy of the L letter is on page 6.

The L letter is only available between August and the following February.

Request to withdraw a client's EOT

You can request the withdrawal of a particular client's EOT at any time by writing to your account manager or calling the tax agents' line.

We won't reinstate your EOT for that client without your agreement.

Request to reinstate a client's EOT

The EOT may be reinstated for your client for the 2016 filing year if:

- the 2015 return and current outstanding 2014 return are filed before a late filing penalty is imposed after 7 July, or
- it's unrealistic to expect the client to file their 2015 return before a late filing penalty is applied. Approval for reinstatement of the client's EOT may be negotiated provided:
 - the reasons for not filing the 2014 return by 31 March 2015 have been reviewed, and
 - where possible remedied, and
 - the agent has given us a written undertaking that their 2015 return will be filed by 31 March 2016.

Where a written guarantee can't be provided, an individual extension of time may be negotiated. Any reinstatement of your EOT is at the discretion of the account manager and will be based on your past and present filing performance.

If you want to apply for reinstatement please contact us prior to any late filing penalty being imposed on the 2015 tax return.

Filing performance as at 31 March 2016

If you've filed less than 100% of your client's returns by 31 March 2016 we'll take the following actions.

Where your performance is:

- 98% or better, we'll send you a letter of achievement and encouragement towards the ultimate goal of 100%
- less than 90%, we'll send you a caution and will supervise the EOT arrangement for your 2016–2017 return filing year
- less than 85% as at 31 March 2015 and less than 90% as at 31 March 2016, we'll consult with you and may withdraw your EOT.

Returns outstanding after 31 March 2016

Returns outstanding after 31 March 2016 will be subject to enforcement action. We'll automatically withdraw your EOT for the client for the following year. To prevent any misunderstandings over actions we may take for overdue returns we'll maintain open communications with you. If you haven't filed 100% of your returns by 31 March, and we haven't heard from you, we'll contact the client direct to discuss their outstanding return.

Withdrawing a tax agent's EOT

If your performance was less than 85% as at 31 March 2015, we may withdraw your EOT if your filing is below 90% as at 31 March 2016. This won't be done without first issuing a notice in writing that we're considering withdrawing the EOT and inviting you to discuss your circumstances with your account manager or Inland Revenue manager.

Reinstating a tax agent's EOT

If your EOT is withdrawn it won't be reinstated before the end of the 2016–17 filing year.

Any reinstatement of your EOT is at the discretion of the account manager and will be based on your past and present filing performance.

An EOT can't be reinstated before the next filing year.

List of tax agents

We may remove you or your agency from our list if the Commissioner is satisfied that continuing to list you as a tax agent would adversely affect the integrity of the tax system and/or you're not eligible to be a tax agent (after a thorough review).

For more information go to www.ird.govt.nz/taxagents (search keywords: agents list).

Reports

We generate six reports periodically to help you manage your return filing. You can also request them by calling your account manager.
